THIRD CONGRESS

Sept The silver men day springs a surprise the declaration quorum will have to be present upon the silver resolutions of the repeal present a new move and with the proposition of repeal Mr. submitted his resolution meet at 11 o'clock

instead of 1 on and after Thursday next, and it has been intimated that if this does not result in bringing the debate to a conclusion, night sessions will be proposed But if the friends of silver insist upon a quorum being present constantly, the effect of early meeting and night sessions will to some extent be counteracted as instead of fatiguing the silver men only practically the entire Senate would suffer alike

Substantially the entire day in the Senate was consumed by Mr Stewart (Rep) of Nevada who took positive ground against the repeal of the Sherman act until silver was remonetized The vote of the Senate 37 yeas 23 nays—to proceed to the consideration of executive business this afternoon was the first setback the repeal men have thus far sustained in the Senate

Mr Sherman had introduced a bill prepared by a clerk in the Treasury Department, headed by John Jay Knox, professedly to revise the laws of the mining law but which inadvertently omitted the standard dollar from the list of coins After two days debate the bill which had been reported by Mr Sherman from the Finance committee was passed, Mr Sherman voting in the negative Mr Sherman very briefly Mr Stewart, before his name was reached in the calling of the roll that the bill would pass by an overwhelming majority The history of the bill in the House of Representatives was the same After it was developed that the bill demonetized silver Mr Hooker of Mississippi, who has the charge of the bill affected to abandon it Some days afterwards in the absence of Representative Potter of New York who had discovered the fact that the bill demonetized silver, Mr Hooper reported a substitute for the bill which he falsely claimed contained none of the objectionable features of the original bill The substitute was passed under the erroneous belief produced by Mr Hooper's statements, that the substitute was devoid of the objectionable features of the original bill The substitute came from the House contained in the sixteenth section provision for a dollar of 384 grains over proof

Continuing Mr Stewart said that Mr Sherman at that time reported the House substitute from the Finance committee with a substitute for section 16 which contained a trade dollar of 420 grains The Nevada Senator diverged from his written remarks to observe that he did not make the point at this time inasmuch as he was speaking but that he gave notice that he would when others were speaking or could give facts and information which were so much needed The Senators who spend their time in the cloak room that a quorum of Senators would be in their seats when business is done during the present session

Mr Pugh (Dem) of Alabama rose suddenly moved a call of the Senate as it was manifest, he said that a quorum was not present The call developed the presence of fifty-six Senators and Mr Stewart resumed his speech

Before the Nevada Senator had finished, Mr Morgan (Dem) of Alabama suggested that he had been on his feet a great while and had not yet come to the conclusion of his remarks and doubtless had some valuable suggestions on the subject. He therefore moved that the Senate go into executive session The yeas and nays were called for By a vote of 35 yeas, 28 nays the motion was agreed to as follows

Yeas—Allen Bates, Berry, Butler, Call, Cockrell, Coke Davis, Daniel Dolph Dubois, Faulkner, Harris Hunton, Irby, Jones (Ark) Jones (Nevada) Kyle, Mitchell (Oregon), Morgan Peffer Perkins Pettigrew, Power Pugh Roach Shoup Stewart Teller Turpie Vance Vest, Walthall and Wolcott 35

Nays Aldrich, Allison Brice Carey Cafferty Cullom Dixon, Frye-Gallinger Gorman, Gray, Hale Hawley Hoar Lindsay Mills, McMillan McPherson Palmer, Platt, Proctor, Quay Squire Stockbridge, Smith Vilas Voorhees and White (Louisiana) 28

After a short executive session at 4 o'clock the Senate adjourned until to morrow

Pan American Medicos

—WASHINGTON, Sept. 5—The first Pan American Medical congress opened this morning at Albaugh's opera house The stage was occupied by distinguished guests from abroad President Cleveland, Rt Rev William Paret, bishop of Maryland and Dr William Pepper of Philadelphia, the president of the congress were present.

Unruly Strikers

LONDON, Sept 5 Reports of renewed disorder among the striking miners were received to day Advices from the district around Sutton, Nottinghamshire, states the strikers are becoming very unruly

A thousand miners gathered this afternoon near Chesterfield and thence marched in a mass to the Oakthorpe colliery. Everything on the way that was smashable they smashed The police were unable to cope with the crowds and in obedience to orders troops are now en route from Sheffield.

Rio Grande Salaries Reduced

DENVER, Sept. 5.—The officers of the Denver and Rio Grande railroad from the president to subordinate officers have voluntarily taken a reduction of salaries, generally understood to range from 20 to 10 per cent, according to the amount they have been receiving This action was not taken at the solicitation of the company, but by the officials voluntarily in view of the stringency of the times.

President Jeffery this morning admitted that a portion of the salaries had been surrendered to the company

"It is a matter that is private and simply concerns us," he said "and I have nothing to give out about it"

Catholic Congress.

CHICAGO, Sept. 5.—Archbishop Satolli was the honored visitor at the Catholic congress at the Art institute to day As he entered the hall he was at once recognized and with one mind the entire congregation arose and remained standing until the Papal legate had reached the platform He was introduced to the assemblage and briefly responded in Italian He said "In the name of Leo XIII I salute the great American republic and I call upon the Catholics of America to go forward in one hand bearing the book of Christian truth and in the other the constitution of the United States

NOT THE USUAL WAY

A Missouri Train Robber Captured While at Work

DYNAMITE WAS EMPLOYED

The Express Car Shattered The Messenger and His Clerk Unhurt Relive Trainmen Credited With the Arrest

ST LOUIS, Sept. 5 An express train was held up tonight in the St Louis and San Francisco yards, this time with the unique result of a captured robber—an express messenger being the first person who was hurt The train was held with a red light a few miles east of Leasburg, which is about forty miles west of St Louis The train came to a standstill and two men held the engine crew at bay while a third went to the express car and demanded admittance The messenger refused to open the door If demand then came from one of the engine guards to "Blow the open This command was almost instantly followed by a deafening report and the woodwork of the car was wrecked Then the three highwaymen joined forces and tried to enter the car but were repulsed by the wreckage At this juncture the conductor and a brakeman rushed up to the rear with pistols drawn and surrounded the men to surrender The robbers answered with a poorly directed fusillade which the two brave trainmen met back with interest Such a warm reception unnerved the robbers and two of them took to their heels The third was overpowered and made a prisoner So far as known no one was hurt

When the train pulled into Pacific the express car presented a sorry sight Dynamite had torn the wood work of the car to shreds and left not but the messenger was unhurt

The prisoner was placed under guard in the station and the train proceeded on its journey Excited villagers to the number of 200 had gathered about the station when the United Press correspondent arrived and it was only by the exercise of cooler heads that a lynching was prevented The prisoner is far from being a desperado in looks and has not the scared to talk A posse of a party in pursuit in the saddle At the speed the remaining robbers made it impossible

Later—Out of the mass of contradictory statements it is now learned that Dr Yeats P Bird was captured the bank robber Bird started on the train up and had with him his shotgun with which he forced the robber to surrender The prisoner firmly gave his name as Lenox the son of a farmer at New Burg Not a dollar was lost by passengers or express company

A later report says the robbers gained entrance to the express car and tried to blow open the safe with dynamite which caused the wreckage of the car to take fire An approaching train frightened them from their work The scene of the affair was at Sand Cut one mile from Pacific where Wittrock, alias Jim Cummings made a big haul years ago, and also where Sam Wilson relieved an express car of a bag of silver a little over a year ago

LORDLY OBJECTORS

The English Upper House and the Home Rule Bill

LONDON Sept 5 The House of Lords was filled to day with members and visitors eager to hear the debate on the Home Rule bill opened. Although Conservative whips will not muster their full force before the second or even of the final division the opposition had in attendance to day five members to every one on the Liberal side The galleries were filled with people The strangers' gallery was packed to suffocation A peculiar feature of the crowd was the conspicuousness of the clerical element.

Earl Spencer, First Lord of the Admiralty, moved the second reading of the Home Rule bill He made a tame speech barren of original thought or expression He claimed for the government all honesty of intentions in his work for the bill and credited the opposition with being equally conscientious. He reviewed at some length the history of Ireland, not the union All the so called remedial measures of the successive governments, he said had come too late to help the country, even had they not contained radical defects which would have rendered them useless early or late His own personal experience satisfied him that Home Rule was the only possible solution of the Irish question. He closed with the declaration that the Gladstonian plan of Home Rule was calculated to satisfy all aspirations of Ireland to self government

The Duke of Devonshire, Liberal Unionist, moved the rejection of the bill The Duke of Devonshire contended that every class in Ireland except one was Unionist and was opposed to the measure under discussion. Did the government, he asked, believe that the manufacturers, merchants and traders of the country who opposed the Home Rule bill mistake their position? The union of Ireland and Great Britain he said had been a decree of nature, which laws and treaties had only recorded The present bill was crude and unworkable and a violation of the constitution

Viscount Powers Court, Liberal Unionist, was the next speaker, and the attendance dwindled while he talked of the coming ruin of Ireland He said Home Rule would blight all industries.

Baron Brassey, Liberal spoke in support of the bill and the Duke of Norfolk, Conservative, spoke against it

Weekly Crop Report

WASHINGTON, Sept 4—The weekly crop report of the weather bureau says

The week was unusually dry throughout the central valleys of the upper lake region, thence westward to the Rocky Mountains, thus adding another week of drought conditions over the corn States of the Central Mississippi valley and thence eastward over the Ohio valley The States giving the most favorable reports for the week are Iowa, Kansas and Nebraska Rain fall was generally in excess over the South Atlantic States and in the interior of the Middle Atlantic and New England States, covering a belt of country about 200 miles in width, over which the severe hurricane of last week passed

Colorado reports rains scattered, but better distributed over southern Counties where grass is excellent, very dry over northeastern portion, wheat is being threshed, but the yield will be below the average. Potatoes about average

New York Stock Market.

NEW YORK Sept. 5.—Money on call has been easy, ranging from 2 to 4, last loan at 2 and closing offered at 2. Prime mercantile paper, 8@12 per cent. The sales of silver at the Stock Exchange today were 21,000 ounces at 73.

Irregularity marked the course of prices at the Stock Exchange during the first two hours of business The opening was rather ragged, some stocks showing advances while others scored declines

The offerings were absorbed about mid day, however, when it was seen that notwithstanding the outpouring of stock the impression made on values was unimportant What made this all the more significant was that the market held the raise in face of the unfavorable statement of the St Paul Louisville and Nashville, and Denver and Rio Grande

The enormous falling off is ascribed to the fact that the Masonic conclave was held in Denver to 1892 So far as the heavy decreases made by St Paul and Louisville and Nashville and a few of the minor roads no official explanation was made and the falling off is due to causes which have been operating for some time The market however proved superior to poor earnings and selling by conservative holders and in the afternoon fairly boomed To the surprise of the large crowd and those who have been predicting that the upward movement was scarcely warranted by conditions, prices bounded up 5 per cent at a time in some instances The gain was most pronounced in stocks of properties recently alleged to have been in danger of receiverships

Railway and miscellaneous bonds were active, with the transactions amounting to $2,000,000 The market was decidedly higher, nearly everything on the list participating in the upward movement.

A DOUBTFUL CASE

The Coroner's Verdict In the Graves Case an Intangible One

DENVER Sept 5 The coroner's jury in the case of Dr Graves has reported that judging from the letters the deceased left behind he contemplated suicide but that from the testimony introduced the jurors were unable to determine whether it was a natural death or suicide

The testimony especially referred to was to that of Captain Crowe, the jailer who insisted that the deceased died from a broken heart and had not committed suicide

The Deaf and Blind.

The school for the Deaf and Blind will open to-day with a much larger attendance than was anticipated

An unusual event will be the advent into the school this year of four Southern Ute Indians, The government will pay $1000 for the education of the Indians.

Several pupils are expected from outside States this year, which have no schools of their own and their tuition fees will help swell the funds in the treasury

Superintendent Ray left for Cheyenne last night to meet pupils from Idaho and Wyoming He will go to night to Salida to meet the Indians One pay pupil has already arrived from Arizona

A $15,000 GRAVEL PATH

Made of Brazilian Pebbles Which Have Been Bought as Coffee

The gorgeous tales of oriental splendor tell of pathways strewn with gold dust to be trodden by the sacred feet of royalty, and diamonds are the conventional paving material for the promenade of the princes in the fairy tale It has been left to a St Louis business man to construct a gritted walk—neither long nor strikingly beautiful—that is a modern if comparatively humble rival of the glittering highways of fiction and fable, for it represents $15,000 hard cash

Mr Edward P Kinsella vice president of the Hanley Kinsella Coffee company, is the proud possessor of this unique walk It is composed of several tons of Brazilian pebbles that came to him in an ordinary business way during the past few years.

This firm are heavy importers of Brazilian coffee Before the berries are ready to be roasted for the market the sacks are opened and the contents carefully examined for twigs, leaves and other impurities the latter generally taking the shape of small pebbles about the size of a coffee berry These came with such regularity and in such quantities that long ago the idea that they were accidentally in the sacks was abandoned and the conclusion reluctantly reached that they were purposely placed in the bags to make weight. The daily discoveries of the Brazilian pebbles will fill an ordinary water bucket The importers pay for coffee

Two years ago Mr Kinsella concluded to utilize this apparent evidence of the dishonesty of the faraway coffee packer and had the accumulation of pebbles carted out to his handsome residence on the West Pine street boulevard where they were used to make a handsome garden walk The pebbles represent a weight that in coffee would be worth $15,000 The gravel path is each month being added to, and it is but a question of time when Mr Kinsella will have the most expensive piece of garden path in the known world—St Louis Globe-Democrat.

'Luke's Iron Crown'

One of the most awful modes of punishment inflicted by the law invested barbarians of olden times was that jocularly referred to by the old inquisitors as "Luke's iron crown" I can only find record of one country—Hungary—where it became the recognized mode of killing criminals convicted of enormous crimes (and there it was only used on regicides), but several other governments are known to have used it in aggravated cases. This mode of punishment with an apostolic name consisted of placing a crown of red hot iron upon the head and leaving it there until the sizzling flesh and bone burned away and allowed the very brain of the writhing wretch to be fried to crisp before life had entirely left the body Could even a hoofed and horned, spike tailed devil fresh from the infernal regions, devise a more inhuman method of inflicting the death penalty?

The term "Luke's iron crown" was applied to this method of legal killing because it was first used in ridding Hungary of a rebel named Luke Dosa Luke and his brother George headed a revolt, and the former allowed himself to be crowned king by his followers. When finally taken by the government, they made the crown business "too hot for him"—an example to future would be kings.—St. Louis Republic.

VETERANS PARADE.

The G. A. R. Encampment at Indianapolis.

MANY THOUSANDS IN LINE

Incidents of the March—Well Known Faces and Features President Harrison a Prominent Participant in the Parade

INDIANAPOLIS Sept 5 The blue coats have captured the city but the capitulation of the Hoosier capital has been a peaceable and voluntary one, marked by the roaring of cannon except that employed in bidding the invaders welcome They have come until the streets and hotels are filled with them and hall public and private places of entertainment have as many as they can take care of great outdoor racks erected especially for the occasion with accommodations of nearly 2000 have no vacant places under their hospitable roofs even every room in every public school house and hall in the city and white tents with flags floating are in every park

Indianapolis is in a blaze of patriotic decoration The streets have resounded for old hours with the tread of marching men One delegation after another from all parts of the Union have followed each other from the depot So well have the arrangements been planned that in the midst of all these great crowds there is no disorder and no great confusion Everything is moving smoothly There are information bureaus on every corner Down town and hundreds of extra police are on hand to tell the veterans anything they want to know and help them to their barracks if they need help Barrels of ice water on every street corner, surgeons and ambulances placed at all central points are some of the things that make this encampment such a success

A FINE SHOWING

"I have attended every encampment for two years, said an ex commander from an Eastern State and Indianapolis has exceeded all other cities in every respect The veterans are here in as many proportions as were at Washington last year and more than were ever before seen in this city since the days of 65 when the veterans were marching home

The parade Saturday and Sunday were but a forerunner of what was to come Sunday evening yesterday morning the traces extra and special that came in have been taken down with members of the G A R and their friends Next Friday and Saturday there promises to be such an exodus of people from here to the White City by the lake that the temporary population of Chicago will be augmented tens of thousands The old soldier had a brief time last night with the public receptions, campfires and other entertainments, formal and informal He went to bed late and got up late this morning The booming of cannon awakened him and when he came down town he found the streets so packed he could hardly get to his rendezvous.

The sun had scarcely risen when the people began to gather along the parade line of march The police had been out before them and had stretched wire cable along the streets to keep the crowds away from the marchers.

THE PARADE

In front of the court house was an amphitheater 400 feet long with seats for 5000 people The center was a gorgeously decorated reviewing stand from which the commander in chief and his staff saw the great parade As the hour for the parade approached the crowd thronged every spot from which it was possible to see the parade Officers and orderlies on elegantly caparisoned steeds dashed here and there, getting posts and battalions and divisions in order The music was on every side, and above it was the cheering of the multitude Not one house along the entire line of march and it was two miles, was undecorated. The streets and lawns were a mass of bright colors fluttering in the spring like breeze over the heads of the brave men who marched along in the ranks as they had done before. The spectacle was impressive and picturesque Never before was it equalled in this city, and probably never in any other

The weather to-day was of the "made to order" kind cool and pleasant, with a light breeze. The great column began to move The line of march was down Meridian street to New York west to Pennsylvania, south to Market east to New Jersey, south to Washington, west on Washington to Tennessee

GRAND SCENE

The procession came down the flag-covered streets with 100 mounted police in the lead, followed by General J R Carnahan, grand marshal, and his staff of 200 mounted men, all in full dress uniform Then came the naval veterans, and behind them a great fleet representing the Monitor, with a banner bearing the words of Farragut, "Damn the torpedoes, go ahead"

The second detachment of parade officers was led by Captain Jack Crawford Illinois had the place of honor in the lead of the procession and, under Department Commander E A Blodgett, her thirty posts and 2000 men made a striking appearance In the middle of the line were 100 or more men singing "We'll hang Hoke Smith on a sour apple tree"

The sight that is familiar to all attendants at encampments, "Old Abe," the war eagle that had been carried in every parade, alive or stuffed, for the past twenty seven years, was again at the head of the Department of Wisconsin. F A Shores, department commander, with five posts and 300 men in line The veterans from Pennsylvania, each carrying a flag, were third in line, behind their commander, Colonel Thomas G. Sample.

Ohio came next and looked as if the procession from the Buckeye state would never end There were 2500 men under the guidance of Department Commander L H Williams and bands and drum corps by the score

The gallant sons of New York came next. Department Commander J P Cleary commanding, five posts in line with 250 men They marched like old soldiers and were cheered by the crowd

Then came the New England delegation led by Massachusetts, Captain Eli W Hall commanding and Captain Jack Adams, the most prominent candidate for national commander in chief, whose election is to day regarded as a foregone conclusion, marching in the ranks with the boys.

Department Commander Frank G. Noyes was at the head of the New Hampshire delegation and George W Body commanded the Vermonters, who wore sprigs of green bay in their hats.

Michigan, Colonel James W Kidd, commander, made one of the best displays, with ten posts and nearly 1000 men

In the Texas delegation was a man whose figure has been familiar in many national gatherings, that of General A Banning Norton, with his long patriarchal beard and hair, which he had sworn not to cut until Henry Clay should be elected President

Indiana brought up the rear of the parade and there was cheering all along the line when ex President Harrison was seen marching in the ranks with his old comrades of George H Thomas Post of this city

In all there were between 25,000 and 30,000 people in the parade

The reception by the ladies' auxiliaries, to the Woman's Relief Corps and other auxiliaries of the G A R occurred at Tomlinson hall to night, Mrs Flora Fletcher, chairman of the executive committee, welcomed the guests When she introduced him mentioned the name of General Harrison there was prolonged applause

The ex President bowed his thanks, and made a short address pleading fatigue as a legitimate excuse for brevity Other addresses followed

HORSE RACES

Second Day of the Races at the Country Club's Track

There was not a large attendance at the second day of the Country club races yesterday It is too bad the attendance has not been larger, as the races have been very good No great speed was made but all the races were for blood, and in every way interesting The Country club will soon be able to work up considerable interest in racing if it has the least encouragement

There were not over 200 people on the grounds yesterday The first race was a special with a road race trot two best in three for a purse of $100 The owners drove their own horses The first heat was won by S H M Smith's Gypsy, in 3 40 The second heat was taken by James Lungs's Seldom Fed, in 3 41 Gypsy won the race In the third heat Seldom Fed came under the wire first but the judges gave the heat and race to Gypsy, as Seldom Fed crowded the mare out of place and shut her out when coming down the stretch in both legs

There were three entries in the free for all trot for a purse of $100 three heats in five In the first heat Joel Boggs Buckhounds won in 2 34 J A Youngs Cobron second and J W Sullivans McLeod third It was evident that the driver of Cobron pulled him on the stretch however In the next two heats Cobron came through in the lead all the way In the fourth heat there was a close race between Cobron and Buckhounds and they came under the wire almost neck and neck The heat was given to Cobron and the time 2 37

The half mile dash for a purse of $100 was won by D Lenard Hart after a pretty little race with L C Pellams Sweetheart, which was a close second Charles Collins's Charlie C, was third

The one mile novelty race for $100 had four entries Pellams Missouri Lou, Gilpin's Brown Pete Beans John Winfield and Foster's Grey Face This was a very pretty race Missouri Lou took the lead and won the first second and third quarters and John Winfield came under the wire first for the last quarter Brown Pete had sore feet, but held his own for the first quarter with the larger horses.

There was a special sweepstakes quarter mile dash between Brown Pete owned by Frank Gilpin Bird owned by F O Wood and Broncho Dick, owned by J Winfield of Denver This was won by Brown Pete with Bird second Broncho Dick could not get started after many trials and in consequence was left far in the rear His owner expressed dissatisfaction with the race but there was no help for it

Altogether the races have been very satisfactory, so far as the racing went Much of the credit is due to Mr J W Rea of the starter, and to Mr Villier who the members of the Country Club gave the best efforts to it

OUR PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

The schools of the city began their season's work to day. Yesterday's preliminary organization showed that they will be full and that the teachers will have plenty of work. The Board of Education, too, has no light task before it in providing ways and means for the proper instruction of so many with the present accommodations.

That all the tasks to be encountered will be accomplished, however, we cannot doubt. The corps of teachers is one of the best to be found anywhere, and our school board is a remarkably competent body. With the cordial co-operation of citizens and parents our schools can be made this year better than ever.

STARTING UP AGAIN.

It is not only the banks which temporarily suspended business during the panic that are starting up again all over the State. The smelters are beginning to do business again, and a movement is well under way to begin work on some of the mines in the Leadville district.

There are some mines in that district that would not have shut down at all if the miners had been willing to accept a reduced rate of pay. Now the miners are more reasonable. As between no work at all and $2 a day, they are beginning to prefer the latter. It seems probable that wages will be adjusted on a sliding scale, somewhat as they have been in the iron industry in Pennsylvania, going up or down according to the market for their product. This is an equitable arrangement, and if the mines can be worked at all, it should prove reasonably satisfactory both to miners and operators.

The elements of scare and of passion have now been pretty well eliminated from the business situation in this State, and from this time on we look for an improvement—not a sudden jump or boom, but a slow, gradual, but steady improvement, in which there will be few backward steps, and perhaps none at all.

BRITISH OPINIONS OF THE ARBITRATION.

There are few if any American journals now who are not agreed that the result of the Bering Sea arbitration was distinctly favorable to our interests. That any other opinion should have prevailed is not creditable to the clear-sightedness of our editors. It is plainly evident that what has been done in the way of inhuman and unwise killing of the seals is of small importance compared with the question of what is to be done in the future, and whether they are to be afforded any protection against an indiscriminate killing which must inevitably lead to their extermination. The denial of the arbitrators of the American contention to exclusive rights in Bering Sea is the refusal to acknowledge an empty honor, while the rules established by the arbitration in regard to open-sea sealing are such as to give the Americans under another form all that they demanded.

British journals, both English and Canadian, have not been slow to take this view of the case. The London Times in an editorial published the morning after the decision was announced was disposed to claim that the result was entirely favorable to the British side, but in a subsequent article it declared that there was some reason for the view ascribed to American Agent Foster that, while the British have been declared to be right in their law, "America has got the better of it" on the practical question of the methods to be employed in the hunting of the fur seal.

The Canadian papers are even more outspoken in their opinions. The Toronto Globe, which claims the largest circulation in the Province of Ontario, and which may fairly be considered as representative, closes a lengthy leader with the following paragraph:

Under the circumstances it would be ridiculous to pretend to be pleased with the result of the arbitration. Every clause of the regulations will prove a hindrance to the prosecution of their calling by the Canadian sealers. In regard to this outcome of the negotiations we will probably have some explanations from Sir John Thompson when he reaches this country. It is not at all likely that either he or his colleague, Mr. Tupper, feel that "See the Conquering Hero Comes" would be appropriate on the occasion of their arrival. They are not, and they cannot feel like conquering heroes. Sir John must feel that he was unfortunate in not being able to impress on his brother arbitrators, to any extent whatever, the Canadian view of the matter. How completely he failed in this will be realized by reading the letter of our Ottawa correspondent in another column. Perhaps the most remarkable part of the decision is that none of the regulations apply to the Pribyloff islands. Even during the three months of the close season the company's men can and will go on with their operations while the Canadian fleet remains with folded sails in the harbor. It is true there is no help for it. Having the best case we get the worst of the decision, and there is nothing for it but to accede with the best grace possible, but it is too much to ask us to appear cheerful.

The case could hardly be stated with more precision or force. Surely the Americans have no good reason to complain of the practical results of the arbitration, and so far as the legal aspect is concerned it is quite true, as pointed out by the London Times in the article already referred to, that the United States is interested as much if not more than any other nation in seeing the doctrine of "closed seas" reduced to its smallest possible limits.

The Labor Day celebration in this city was very well conducted, and the day was quietly but thoroughly enjoyed. The speeches made in Alamo Park were for the most part moderate in tone, and some very sensible suggestions were made. Mr. Carrington's suggestion that organized labor take charity work into its own hands has already been put in practice. The Printers' Home in our own city is a splendid example of what can be done by associated effort on the part of wage earners, and the Typographical Union is a good model of what a trade organization should be.

Senator Voorhees talked sense when he maintained that the best tribute the Senate could pay to labor on Labor day was to go ahead and work. The sooner the Senate comes to a vote the better it will be for the laboring men of the country.

Dr. Hasbrouck, who assisted Dr. Bryant during the recent operation on President Cleveland, says that the disease was incipient sarcoma, or cancer, and that some teeth and part of the jaw were removed.

Senator Pelfer has had a foot of his beard cut off. As it was at least quadrupedal, not to say centipedal, there is plenty left yet to make a dozen pairs of whiskers for ordinary men.

To the large and growing list of eastern bimetallic papers must be added The Engineering and Mining Journal of New York which has a strong article in its current issue.

Better Things in Leadville

The resumption of work on the Maid and Henriett, upon a basis satisfactory to both owners and men, is an event calculated to encourage everybody, since it will be regarded as a forerunner of even better things. The feeling is general that several of the idle smelters might also be put in blast, upon an equally and mutually satisfactory basis, if the owners and former employes could be got together in conference. A vigorous effort should be made to accomplish this at an early date. The effort will cost nothing, and may produce great benefits all around. The two factors to the proposition may not be so far apart in their views after all, and a friendly conference between all concerned will determine at least wherein and to what extent they differ.—[Leadville Herald Democrat.

Stop the Calamity Howl.

The entire Eastern mind seems to believe that we of Colorado, of every class of industry, are on the verge of starvation because silver has received a black eye. For this the daily papers of Denver are responsible, and it is high time that the calamity howl be stopped and a healthier tone given place, for while the wrecking of the mining industry cripples us, we have crutches made of substantial material in other lines that will enable us to hobble over present difficulties and ride the wave. Every town in the State has a certain class that work a few hours each day, if compelled to, and spend the rest of the time talking anarchy, a parasite on a healthy growth, eager to denounce and cry insurrection, without advancing a course of relief that would be given a second thought by a rational being. This is no time to irritate and excite, but the right time to help keep up faith for better things.—[Ft. Morgan Times.

No Reason to Lose Hope.
Silver and Protection.

The most recent Colorado development in favor of the new party at the expense of the old ones, is the coming out of Ex-Governor John L. Routt, who declares for "silver and free trade." His change from the protection to the free trade side of the tariff is avowedly because the East has deliberately ruined Colorado; so he will now do what he can to ruin the East. This is pure cussedness as well as poor reasoning, and Mr. Routt will find that revenges and pques build no parties. If there are not principles enough on which to build, then there is no strength. Protectionists who are and have been such on principle can frame no defense for abandoning that idea now. Instead of "silver and free trade," the cry should be "silver and protection," and a stalwart American policy all along the line. Let's have no Great Britain in it, for either coin or trade, but paddle our own canoe to the grand old chant of "America." Silver! Protection! Home Industry! will do for this region.—[Salt Lake Tribune.

LOADED FOR BEAR.

An Amateur Hunter's Experience in the Magdalena Mountains.

[Special Correspondence.]

SANTA FE, Aug. 31.—"No more bears in mine" was the emphatic announcement made by Mr. William Hall of St. Louis as soon as he was able to make known his wants. And he had never met but one bear either.

He had been in New Mexico two or three weeks and was doing some amateur hunting in the Magdalena mountains southwest of Socorro. He had gone out with the desire and intention of finding and killing a bear and was very much disgusted when he had spent a week in camp and had not yet seen one. So one day he started out alone, telling his companions he was going out loaded for bear and wasn't coming back until he got one.

But all this did not make his surprise one bit the less when a big cinnamon suddenly rose up out of some brush a few feet in front of him. He was so surprised that he forgot what he was there for and simply stood and stared at the huge beast as it began to make for him in a bee line. But before the animal quite reached him his wits returned, and he swung the rifle to his shoulder. He says that he pulled the trigger and is quite sure that he landed one bullet inside the bear's hide, for he is positive that he heard a dull thud. But he admits that what he heard might have been the bear's paw on the side of his head, for the creature brought a tremendous raking blow down the side of his head and across his throat.

And then Mr. Hall knew no more until pain brought him to his senses some time—he has no idea how long—afterward. Then the bear was gone and has not since been in evidence. But it had inflicted horrible punishment upon the intruder into its domains. Mr. Hall had been knocked over a low precipice—a small cliff a few feet in height—and either the fall or the force of the bear's blow with its paw had broken his right leg. The flesh was torn in great strips from his right thigh and right arm, and flesh and skin hung in tatters from the right side of his face. He was so weak from the loss of blood that when he tried to drag himself along the ground he fell back exhausted and almost fainting. Then he tried to call out for help, but found that he could not make a sound, and there was an excruciating pain in his throat.

He thinks that he must soon have lapsed into a semidelirious condition and remained in that state for some hours. He lay there in the sun all through the hottest part of the day, but toward evening some Mexicans came along and found him. One of them took off his shirt and tore it up, and with the strips they bound up his wound the best they could. Then they carried him in their arms to the nearest wagon road, put him into a wagon and drove him to Socorro. Through all of this Mr. Hall was conscious only at rare intervals, and he could not speak nor even whisper a single syllable.

He had gone into the mountains from Kelly, and so in Socorro no one knew who he was or where he belonged. A physician there set his leg and bandaged his wounds, and then they sent him on the train to Santa Fe to the hospital of the Sisters of St. Vincent. One of the sisters returning to Santa Fe from Socorro cared for him on the train.

Finally settled in the hospital, it was several days before he recovered strength enough to care whether the bear should come back and eat him up or not. But one day he made some movements with his left arm which were understood to mean a desire for pencil and paper. They supposed he wanted to let them know his name and how they could communicate with his friends. So they watched anxiously while he slowly and clumsily penciled something on the paper, and then this was what they read, "No more bears in mine!"

A swipe of the bear's claws across his throat had torn it open and injured the vocal chords, but this wound healed as well as the others, and when he returned to St. Louis, where his father is a wealthy and influential citizen, he had recovered his voice. FLORENCE FISCH KELLY.

CHOLERA FORTY YEARS AGO.

Facts In the Memory of the Passing Generation Only.

[Special Correspondence.]

ROCHESTER, Aug. 31.—The precautions taken in New York to prevent a visitation of the cholera have set some of the older inhabitants of this city to talking of the disease in 1852-4.

"I was a hack driver then," said one old man today who has since got rich and retired, "and I was here busy all the time during the first summer the cholera was here attending funerals. I was not sick a day all the season except for a plague of boils which came to me and made my life a burden.

"Some of the victims were taken away very suddenly. I remember a doctor who was very successful in his treatment of cholera. There were very few cholera patients in the families he attended regularly, because he made it a point to admonish them as to how they should live in order to prevent the disease. He urged them to be careful and drink only boiled water and to avoid eating uncooked fruit.

"One afternoon I saw him eating a muskmelon, and I told him it didn't look well for him to be breaking the rule he had laid down so stringently. He colored up and threw the melon away. Before sundown he was dead of the cholera. I don't know, of course, whether the melon did it or not, but you may be sure I was careful not to eat any fruit during the rest of that season.

"You have heard no doubt of the occasional cases of cholera patients reviving after death was supposed to have come. Well, I remember a case that gave me a great start. A woman who lived in a very tough part of the town was found lying in her rooms, as was supposed, dead from cholera. She was put into a coffin and taken to the burying ground. When the box was lifted out of the wagon, one of the men let go, and one end dropped to the ground. The lid burst, and the woman was revived by the shock. She jumped out as lively as you please and expressed her opinion of the men who were about to put her under ground in language more forcible than choice. She hadn't had cholera at all, but had been dead drunk when she was found on the floor in her house. She lived to be sent up for drunkenness many times after that." CHARLES HENDEE.

His Father a Smart Man.

"Your husband preached from the same text that his father did the last time he was in that pulpit," remarked a good Long Island deacon to the wife of a young minister who was revisiting his boyhood home.

"Indeed," replied the lady, at once interested. "I hope," she continued, "that it was not the same sermon."

"Oh, no," said the deacon in a deprecatory manner; "his father was a dreadful smart man."—New York Herald.

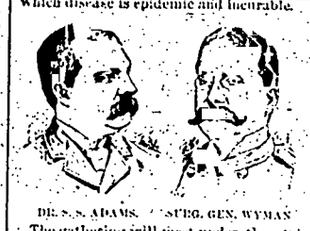
A MEDICAL CONGRESS.

THE GREATEST GATHERING OF PHYSICIANS EVER SEEN.

They Will Discuss Obology, Pathology, Pharmacology, Surgery and Physiology and Deal Telling Blows to Life of the Fleshly Mass Distinguished Doctors.

[Special Correspondence.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—The greatest gathering of physicians of the western hemisphere ever seen will assemble in Washington on the 5th of September. There will be 3,000 of them. They will represent every division into which modern specialization has been able to drive the healers of minds and bodies. Men will be there with special reputations for curing any of the ills to which flesh and fancy are heir, save speechmaking on the financial situation, which disease is epidemic and incurable.



DR. S. S. ADAMS. SURG. GEN. WYMAN

The gathering will meet under the style of the Pan-American medical congress and will look in the sunshine of the direct patronage of the United States, whose president will open the congress on the morning of the 5th of September and welcome the visitors from foreign countries. The congress is a growth of the Pan-American ideas which sprang into popularity a few years ago under the fostering care of the late Secretary Blaine, who had hoped to leave Pan-Americanism—political, commercial, social and scientific—as the bright jewel of the closing years of a brilliant career. It is in addition a direct result of the Columbian year and the Chicago exposition.

Congress by act of July 18, 1892, made an appropriation and authorized the president to issue invitations to all the governments of the American hemisphere to send delegates to a medical congress in Washington in 1893. All the governments have announced that leading representatives of the medical profession will be sent here as delegates in response to this invitation. The larger cities and colleges of Latin-American countries will send delegates, so that there will be many of our southern neighbors on hand to receive the greetings of the great throng of well-known physicians of the United States.

The United States will be represented by 6 delegates; 59 others have thus far been appointed by state governors; others will come as municipal representatives, and delegates will attend from medical societies and colleges.

The president of the congress will be the celebrated Dr. William Pepper of Philadelphia, practitioner, professor in the Pennsylvania university, medical editor and student of the natural sciences. The work of general secretary to the congress will be performed by Dr. Charles A. L. Reed of Cincinnati.

The congress will last four days, in the morning of Sept. 5 holding a general meeting, at which the addresses of President Cleveland, Dr. Pepper, Dr. Reed and Dr. S. S. Adams, chairman of the local committee of arrangements, will be delivered. This speechmaking and a reception at night will be all for the first day, but the three succeeding days will be crowded with sessions of the congress and of the numerous sections into which it has been divided and with excursions.

To the medical profession the most interest will attach to the section sessions, at which experts will read technical papers on their specialties. Twenty-four sets of quarters have had to be provided for the committee for meetings of these sections, which have been divided as follows: On anatomy, dermatology and syphilography; children's diseases, diseases of the mind and nervous system; gynecology and abdominal surgery; hygiene, climatology and demography; laryngology and rhinology; marine hygiene and quarantine; medical jurisprudence, medical pedagogics, medicine (general), military medicine and surgery, obstetrics, ophthalmology, oral and dental surgery, orthopaedic surgery, otology, pathology, railway surgery, registration, surgery (general), physiology, therapeutics and pharmacology.

An interesting feature of the congress, and one with a commercial aspect to it, will be the medical exhibit, of which the purpose is to introduce to foreign visitors the medicinal resources of the United States, with the view to diverting South American trade from European channels to the United States.

Dr. H. H. Barker, the chairman of this section, says that the manufacture of instruments and skill in their manipulation have advanced so that operations are now easily possible that a few years ago would not have been attempted even by a very rash doctor. Another feature of the exhibit will be the display of triturates in which the active principles of drugs are embodied, so that the doses given now need be only a small fraction as large as formerly. In the matter of dentistry the advance in mechanical science will be very apparent, and some interesting applications of electricity to dental work will be shown.

In the last Cleveland administration, when the international medical congress met here, one of the operations which attracted the most widespread attention and comment was the implanting of a tooth into the long vacant cavity of a subject who offered himself for the experiment. Since that time numerous dentists have successfully implanted teeth in the mouths of patients willing to undergo the pain for the sake of the improvement effected in their looks.

The papers read and the active work of the congress over, the delegates will make an extended tour through the principal northern and eastern cities. One of the longest stops will be at Philadelphia, where some delegates will rest, while others go down to Delaware breakwater and have fully explained the workings of the present American system of quarantine as exemplified on Reedy island.

The proceedings of the section on quarantine will be perhaps the most important as it will be the most popularly interesting of the various section sessions of the congress, especially in view of the prevalence of cholera and yellow fever. The chairman of the section will be Dr. Walter Wyman, who, a supervising surgeon general of the marine hospital service, has control of all national quarantines. Dr. Wyman is a young man for such an important post, being only about 40 years of age. He is a son of Professor Edward Wyman, formerly a well known educator of St. Louis.

The doctor served the government in various capacities and stations prior to his promotion to his present office on the retirement of Dr. John B. Hamilton, whose assistant he had been. The efficiency of this year's quarantine is the best evidence of his fitness for his office. He has arranged an extensive programme for the quarantine section. To Dr. John J. Cassidy of Ontario has been assigned the opening of the discussion on the hygiene of vessels, ventilation, heating, sanitary arrangements and disposition of cargoes, all coming under this head. Dr. Walford Nelson, U. S. A., stationed in New York, will read one of the papers most likely to provoke a long discussion. It will deal with the propagation of diseases by shipping and the responsibility of nations for epidemics. The matter of pilgrimages and immigration as disease breeders will be touched.

A celebrated fever expert, Dr. Juan J. Ulloa, of Costa Rica, has been given the theme "International Uniformity in Quarantine Regulations," and other physicians will offer suggestions relative to treatment of epidemics on shipboard and on land.

Two other delegates to the congress on the part of the general government besides Dr. Wyman will be Surgeon General George M. Sternberg of the army and Surgeon General J. R. Tryon of the navy. Both these gentlemen are New Yorkers by birth and both did gallant service in the late war. Dr. Sternberg has an international reputation for his investigations and writings on bacteriology and yellow fever, and Dr. Tryon made a name for himself by service as a volunteer in the yellow fever epidemic at the Pensacola navy yard in the early seventies. He is highly regarded as an organizer.

Among doctors of this country who will attend will be Drs. A. M. Owen of Evansville, Ind.; Henry D. Holton of Brattleboro, Vt., chairman of the executive committee; J. N. Love of St. Louis; A. Van der Veer of Albany; V. C. Vaughan of Ann Arbor, Mich.; Alfred L. Loomis, New York; John B. Hamilton, Chicago; Giles S. Mitchell, Cincinnati; William Warren Potter, Buffalo; H. A. Hare, Philadelphia; John B. Roberts, Philadelphia; Isaac Ott, Easton, Pa.; John M. Keating, Colorado Springs; John Guiteras, Philadelphia; Julian J. Chisolm, Baltimore; C. M. Hobby, Iowa City, Ia.; E. F. Ingals, Chicago; A. H. Ohmann-Dumesnil, St. Louis; A. M. Vance, Louisville; C. H. Hughes, St. Louis; J. C. Warren, Boston; Alonzo Garcelon, Lewiston, Me., and C. W. P. Brock, Richmond.

Mr. Ernest Hart, the distinguished editor of The British Medical Journal, and Dr. Hunter McGuire, president of the American Medical association, will be guests of honor.

Among the foreigners expected are: Drs. Samuel Gache, Buenos Ayres; Napoleon Rama, Bolivia; Baptista de Lacerda, Brazil; Manuel Barros Borgono, Chili; Jose Llerena, Guatemala; Jesus Bendana, Honduras; John McGrew, Hawaii; Francisco Mata Lacayo, Nicaragua; Leonardo Villar, Peru; Francisco Zayas, Cuba; S. L. Grane and J. C. Phillipps, West Indies.

More Pearl Hunters.

[Special Correspondence.]

FRANKFORT, Ind., Aug. 29.—Robert and Tom Roush, two enterprising young men of this city, followed pearl hunting as an occupation, and they are making considerable money out of it. They have been searching for the lustrous gems for several months and have secured hundreds of the pearls which are to be found along streams in this state. The boys have not confined themselves to the rivers about home, but have followed the larger streams throughout the state for miles.

The other day the brothers returned from a trip along the White river, Blue river and Mississinewa and Fall creek. They had been searching for days with no success when one of them opened a shell and discovered a pearl weighing 30 grains. As the pearls are sold for $4 per grain, that find was worth $80. The pearls are found in mussel shells, and those secured by the Roush brothers vary in size from 2 to 30 grains, and larger ones have been found in the state. The boys are now searching along the Eel river in the vicinity of Peru.

The pearl product of Indiana is purchased by Alfred Good of Cutler, Ind., who sends the pearls to eastern markets. The Roush brothers are not alone in the pearl searching business. There are a number of Indianians who are engaged in this industry, and the total value of the pearl output of Hoosierdom amounts to quite a respectable figure. The gems are usually round shaped, although now and then one of oval shape is found. The majority is flawless. FREDERIC K. KISSEY.

THIRD VISITORS TAKING A BITE.

a restaurant dinner cost so much more in Chicago than in New York, reply that the meat and flour and meal go home to that city? During the war (early in 1864) I got a splendid dinner here for 50 cents. Flour has reached the lowest price, since records were kept in Illinois, but 50 cents buys just the same loaf it did when wheat was $1.50. The fair is now spoken of as an assured financial success, but if these fellows don't look out they will scare it all away yet.

The increased crowd contains a much bigger percentage of easily bewildered people, and by some mysterious law of nature they get worse bewildered in the Manufactures building than anywhere else. The Columbian guard in charge of the department of watches has something about him which makes all these people appeal to him like lost children. "O, mister, have you seen my husband? He said he'd wait here," was the salutation of one lady the other day. Without a smile the guard informed her that so far as he had observed people who made special appointments will always be an hour longer getting to the place than they had expected. And so testify many others. In crossing the grounds many people use up at least twice as much time as they realize. A gentleman who had evidently lost his bearings completely addressed to this guard the startling inquiry:

"Say, guard, where am I going?"

"If you had asked 'Where am I at' I could have told you," replied the guard, who evidently reads the congressional news. Another gentleman approached guard and bystanders alike by asking with all the innocence in the world.

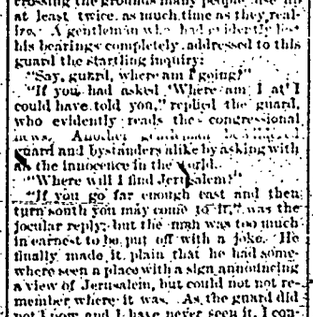
"Where will I find Jerusalem?"

"If you go far enough east and then turn south you may come to it," was the jocular reply; but the man was too much in earnest to be put off with a joke. He finally made it plain that he had somewhere seen a place with a sign announcing a view of Jerusalem, but could not remember where it was. As the guard did not know and I have never seen it, I conclude that it must be down in the plaisance or in the city. A lady asked another guard in that building where she would "find the barter?" It turned out that she wanted the bazaar. —J. B. PARKE.

What the Fair Has Done.

It is time for the croakers who have fallen into the habit of calling the World's fair a financial failure to change their tune. It is not a failure, financially or otherwise; instead, it is a great success. That the stockholders will realize little or nothing on their investment is granted. So far as that is concerned they never expected to. The citizens of Chicago who subscribed for World's fair stock did so through civic pride or with the idea that the holding of the exposition here would help their regular business. They expected it to benefit the city and in that benefit they hoped to share. And in this respect the fair has paid for itself grandly. It has brought to Chicago an abundance of $5, $10 and $20 bills. Millions of dollars have gone into circulation on account of it and the result can be seen today. While New York is short of cash and is doing business with clearing-house certificates, while Philadelphia and other cities are in the same fix, Chicago is all right. There has never been a time during all this financial trouble when the man with a balance in the bank could not get the money on his check. There has never been a time when currency went to a premium or drafts were dishonored.

Anxious to Know.



Featherstone—Mr. Tutter asked me to step in and say he wouldn't be around tonight. I don't want to unnecessarily alarm you, Miss Pinkerly, but the fact is he has broken his arm.

Miss Pinkerly (anxiously)—Oh, how dreadful! Which arm is it?—Truth.

Some Old Cheeses.

In the cheese regions of Switzerland a custom formerly prevailed for the friends of a bride and bridegroom to join in the presentation on their wedding day of an elaborate cheese. This cheese was used as a family register, on which the births, marriages and deaths were recorded. Some of these old cheeses date back to 1600.—Exchange.

IRREGULARITY.

Is that what troubles you? Then it's easily and promptly remedied by Doctor Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They regulate the system perfectly. Take one for a gentle laxative or corrective, three for a cathartic.

If you suffer from Constipation, Indigestion, Bilious Attacks, Sick or Bilious Headaches, or any derangement of the liver, stomach or bowels, try these little Pellets. They bring a permanent cure. Instead of shocking and weakening the system with violence, like the ordinary pills, they act in a perfectly easy and natural way. They're the smallest, the easiest to take—and the cheapest, for they're guaranteed to give satisfaction, or your money is returned. You pay only for the good you get.

At noon, Sept. 16th, this fertile strip will be thrown open for settlement. The government, recognizing the fact that the Santa Fe railroad reaches all the important points in the strip, has located three land offices on this line, where there have been erected large buildings for the accommodation of settlers, and wells have been sunk to supply water. These stations are Alva in the northern central portion, Woodward, in southwestern portion, and Perry, in southeastern portion. Registering booths have been located at the different stations on the Santa Fe along the border of the strip, where settlers can obtain all required papers and secure outfits and supplies. These land offices and lands as well as all the towns along the northern border, are reached only by the Santa Fe route, which offers inducements to settlers superior to any other line. Illustrated folders containing map of the strip and full instructions how to take up a claim free upon application to Santa Fe agent office.

A Financial Episode.

A Pittsburger who found himself in possession of a check for $600 marked "payable only through the clearing house" presented the paper at the bank on which it was drawn.

"We can't cash it," said the teller as he handed the check back. "It must go through the clearing house in the regular way. Deposit it in the bank where you do business."

"I have no bank account," replied the man with the check.

"Then take it to some man you owe money to. He will know it is perfectly good and will be glad to cash it for you to get what is due him."

"Don't be so fast. I don't owe anybody anything."

"Don't owe anything!" repeated the bank officer in astonishment. "Great Scott, man, then you don't need the money!"—Pittsburg Chronicle.

His Explanation.

"Yes," said the important young man to the young lady whom he had just met, "I have just been from pole to pole."

"Why, Mr. Brickens," said the hostess, "I didn't know you were ever out of the United States."

"Oh—er—ahem, you see I came here on the electric cars. I referred to the trolley poles."—Washington Star.
